Behind The Glamour

Government agencies by the score are planning how the people of the United States are to live when peace returns. The inference is that the people are incapable of planning on their own hook. Whole industries are threatened with having their future laid out for them by public officials who have striven to create the impression that they are endowed with a degree of competence not possessed by the ordinary citizen.

Behind this official glamour there is nothing to inspire the belief that government officials are super-beings. For instance, they did not make it possible for this country to produce five times as much coal per man per day as do the miners of Britain. They did not make it possible for the coal industry to turn out a record 625,000 tons of coal during 1944 with 200,000 fewer workers than in 1918. Machinery made this record possible, machinery installed by the coal mining industry over a period of many years.

It would be hard to find a politician who encouraged the mechanized mining that has saved the United States from a tragic coal famine. Any yet these same politicians who know nothing about coal mining, and a few years ago were far too busy with other matters to suggest ways of stimulating coal production, today presume to know more about its future than the coal mine operators. They sit in Washington and compile figures based on current industrial performance while out in the field industry is relentlessly searching for new methods, for shortcuts, for greater efficiency, things that make hash of statistics. The history of the coal industry is typical of American initiative.

The only way central government can blueprint the future is to freeze industry to present standards and prohibit further invention. This could work providing the people can be convinced that government planning is more important than production. But God help us if we ever get into another war!

A Job Well Done

We have supplied gasoline, fuel oil, lubricants, and hundreds of other petroleum products to our fighting men and our allies throughout the world in quantities beyond comprehension. The Office of War Information estimated recently that it requires 6,480,800 gallons of petroleum products for an initial invasion of 250,000 men in a given area, and 32,424,000 gallons to maintain this force for 30 days. This gives an idea of the tremendous job the American petroleum industry is doing in seeing that our armed forces never lack oil.

How it supplied our military demands and kept the wheels turning at home, is a story of accomplishment almost without parallel. While meeting the demands of war, the industry is not failing to think in terms of peace, and its obligation to maintain unending reserves for the greatest oil using nation in the world.

We are just discovering, as it were, the vast potential of our great natural resources, oil, that has transformed our way of living—discoveries brought about by individual initiative and spurred on by free competition.

Won't Mix In Same Pot

The government of the United States is launched on a great experiment. It has undertaken to guarantee minimum standards for all. It will endeavor to furnish jobs when needed, the social security system is to be expanded, far prizes are to be maintained by subsidies, and an almost unlimited program of public works has been proposed. The experiment will cost untold billions, and will come on top of a war that promises to run the public debt up to three hundred billion dollars or more.

There is only one way in which this experiment can be carried through successfully, and that is by stimulating to the greatest possible extent the productivity and the initiative of the people. For, notwithstanding the clear propaganda of government dispensers that government grants are gifts, every dollar distributed by government must first be taken from the people in taxes on their earnings and their businesses.

Basic industries, including electric power, mining, and transportation, should be encouraged to progress and develop as private enterprises if for no other reason than that the efficiency of private management has made these industries a primary source of government revenue. The current campaign to socialize the electric industry, thereby creating a vast tax-exempt political power monopoly, should be abandoned at once. The private electric industry pays hundreds of millions of dollars annually in Federal taxes. The government is getting a much larger share of the power industry's earnings than are the millions of investors who own it, without having to share any of the risks of operation. Plans such as the proposal to establish seven more tax-subsidized TVA Federal electric power projects in direct competition with the taxpaying private electric industry, strike at the vital of the great experiment to eliminate human want. Obviously the country cannot kill its taxpaying industries with tax-exempt government monopolies, and have its taxes too.

A government spending program requiring maximum taxes and maximum production, cannot be mixed in the same pot with socialism.

Teamwork

The statement is often made that this country can look to the future with confidence because of its abundant resources. That is only half of the story. Its resources are not only abundant but have been discovered and developed in a history making manner.

The story of one of our most valued resources, coal, is typical. Coal has helped to provide our military forces—and huge numbers of those of our allies—with the finest offensive and defensive weapons the world has seen. It is the base for 85 per cent of all war plastics, while the high explosives—TNT, picric acid and tetrol—are made from coal, in whole or in part. It requires a ton of coal to produce the steel for a 2,000-pound bomb, 25 tons for a 3-inch anti-aircraft gun, 50 tons for a medium tank, and 32,000 tons for a super dreadnaught. The uses for coal in peacetime will be even broader in the future than in the past. Coal derivatives have literally revolutionized human existence.

In this country, coal is nearly as ubiquitous in its occurrence as in its applications. Found in 37 states it is mined commercially in 28 of them. The value of the coal produced annually in the United States is greater than that of all gold, 22 times that of all silver, 7 times that of all copper and 7 times that of all iron. Fortunately, coal exists in practically unlimited quantities—known reserves in this country are estimated at 3,000 to 4,000 years at present rates of consumption.

These figures give an inkling of what is meant when we speak of our natural resources, but it should not be forgotten that without the teamwork of vast scientific research, plus the ingenuity of American coal producers, the figures would still be buried in the ground along with the coal.

Loafers And Hoarders

The Mead Committee has made public glaring examples of loafing on the job and labor hoarding. Stories of a similar nature from unofficial sources have long been common knowledge. Private citizens can recount from their own experience, disgraceful examples of deliberate loafing on war jobs. Many conscientious workers have quit war jobs because they could not stand the waste of time they were required to endure.

The answer to criticism of labor loafing and labor hoarding is always, "We have produced the goods." That may be true, but as what a price! How much more could have been produced otherwise! We have now reached the point where both money and man-hours are growing scarcer. Let us hope if the Mead Committee is not able to penalize or punish loafers or labor hoarders, that revelations which it can make will arouse the nation and shame the offenders into a correction of their ways.

CINEMATIC MATTER

By Malcolm Miller
The 17 new "Gung Ho" is not so much a picture as it is an Arabian tale. It is the signal for the Marines to charge and the story is the story of Lt. George Carden's Makin Island Raiders, made in cooperation with the United States Marine Corps.

In the cast are, starred, Randolph Scott, Alan Curtis, Noah Berry, Jr. and J. Carroll Nash. Supporting are, David Bruce, Richard Lane, Walter Sande, Louis Jean Heydt, Robert Mitchell, Ron Mitchell, Louis Platt, George Baneroff, Tim Holt. Featured and lending fine support in "Gung Ho" is one of the most exciting and dramatic stories of the Marines that have ever been told, and I'm sure that every one who attends the theatre during this engagement will find this one of the finest pictures of its type and character they have ever witnessed in this old play house.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Leon Errol, Grace McDonald, Walter Catlett are starred and Richard Davis, Ramsey Ames, Jimmy Cash, Millum Stone and Mary Gordon are in able support. "Hat Check Honey," a show that is built for laughing, purposes strictly and one I know you will enjoy greatly.
On the same program, as an added attraction, they are bringing back one of the best Western pictures we ever played which, "Stagecoach," with Walter Sande, John Wayne, Claire Trevor, with Andy Devine, John Carradine, Thomas Mitchell, Louis Platt, George Baneroff, Tim Holt. Featured and lending fine support in telling this story of the hardships of travel in the days of the old West.
For the Thursday-Friday screening we have Jack Haley, the famous radio star Harriet Hilliard and Mary Beth Hughes, starred and Arline Judge, N. G. (Nils Thor Granlund), Richard Lane, Frank Forest, Frits Feld and Fuzzy Knight in support in the very delightful comedy "Take It Big." This is another musical with all of the dialogue built for laughing purposes only. I know you'll like every inch of it.

Saturday comes Mojave Firebrands, which is a Western epic with an all-star Western cast and plenty of action. See you at the movies.

Mrs. John C. Dunning is receiving treatment at the Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

Internal Revenue Men to Visit Belle Glade

John L. Fales, Collector of Internal Revenue, announced plans to have his Deputy Collectors in Belle Glade on Feb. 21 and 22 for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in that vicinity in the preparation of their returns and to advise those requiring information about their tax liabilities.

The Collector stated that, although, the 1944 income tax return form has been greatly simplified, more gross income are required, all persons receiving $500 or more must file.

Taxpayers can be served more quickly and satisfactorily, if they will assemble their figures and information in a clear and concise form before presenting tax problems to the deputies. In this manner more persons can be served than would be the case if the required figures must be compiled from incomplete or voluminous sources.

Collector Fales urged those wishing to confer with his deputies to make note of the above dates as due to the limited force available, it will be impossible to render further assistance at a later date.

W. J. N. O. To Have "Open House"

Radio Station WJNO will hold an "Open House" at the new studio location, 1500 North Flagger Drive, during the week of February 18th. The "Open House" will be held in order that the general public might have an opportunity to see the many improvements that have been made in the station's operating facilities.

The Studios have been completely refurnished and redecorated all the way through. The exterior of the building has been remodeled and the grounds have been landscaped so that WJNO is now one of the most modern and beautiful structures in the Palm Beaches.

On Friday evening, February 22nd, there will be a re-dedication ceremony, and the program will be broadcast from 7:30 to 8:00 p. m., originating in the new studios and featuring many of the prominent citizens of the Palm Beaches. Among those present will be City and County officials as well as prominent men from communities in Palm Beach county other than West Palm Beach. The list of distinguished guests will include many men as P. P. DeMoya, President of the Palm Beach County Resources Development Board—Luther Jones of Belle Glade and Paul Rardin of Canal Point.

The dedicatory program will be broadcast for the purpose of once again reaffirming WJNO's firm desire to be of service to the Palm Beaches in any manner possible and to take an active part in the civic life of this community.

P-T. A. Founders Day Observed

Belle Glade, Feb. 14.—Founders' Day was observed at the regular meeting of the Belle Glade Parent-Teacher Association, held in the high school auditorium, Monday night. Dr. John I. Leonard was the guest-speaker and prefaced his talk with a tribute to the Founders of the organization. He spoke on "Education of Today and Plan for the Post War Period." Phases discussed were: recent changes in the curriculum, accelerated school programs; long-term school periods, including kindergarten and junior college; improved organization and physical equipment; better paid and better qualified teachers; vocational and adult education. He called for emphasis upon the fundamentals of education and urged a cooperative home and school program for character and citizenship training.

"Our most urgent need," said Dr. Leonard, "is planning for the education of our returned veterans, and our great desire is to serve them." He closed his talk by urging support of the legislative program of the Continuing Educational Council.

The high school band numbering 43 pieces made its initial public appearance as a whole unit and gave an excellent performance before an appreciative audience. Mrs. Bobbie Allum, director, beautifully lined their preparation, future plans and directed them in four numbers.

The program was concluded in the cafeteria where a birthday cake was cut by the first president of the local association, Walter Hooker. Mr. Hooker gave a brief history of the Belle Glade school and compared the early physical equipment with the modern plant of today, and pointed out the phenomenal growth, since the organization of the local P-T. A. sixteen years ago, with the school membership now numbering over 700 students, more than 400 of whom are served hot lunches daily in the new and improved school cafeteria, and the P-T. A. membership now reaching over 250 members.

Hostesses for the evening, serving coffee and cake to the group were Mrs. Roscoe Bradlock, Mrs. Lee Hayman, Mrs. James A. Ball and Mrs. Frank Doolley.

Mrs. F. D. Stevens, president, presided at a brief business session and it was voted to give $25 from the P-T. A. fund to the library fund.

Principal Holston reported $176 received for the library fund from the proceeds of the spaghetti supper.

The following nominating committee was appointed, to prepare a slate of officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. Kenneth Lutz, Mrs. Jack Royals, Mrs. Clyde Doolittle and Mrs. E. M. Van Landingham.

After your truck has been through our shop you can tell by the way it runs that our treatment is good and thorough. It takes men who know all about motor trucks to make expert repairs. Our mechanics qualify for this important work. And they're hard at it these days doing all they can to keep more trucks rolling.

Your truck also appreciates good replacement parts. We sell the best—genuine International parts that are identical with the original parts built into International Trucks at the factory. Order your parts now from our big stock.

New trucks will be scarce for some time to come. A few will be available in this community for essential civilian hauling. We will be glad to help you make out the necessary application. But the big thing is to keep your present equipment in the best possible shape. That's the important job we'll do for you whenever you say.

CELERY PRODUCTION

The season of 27-28 saw the first celery grown in commercial quantities at the Brown Farm with refrigerated barges hauling it to the railroad here.

In 1931-32 Little Doe Van Landingham took up where the Brown Farm left off and produced celery at the Brown Farm; he has since been continuously growing celery; the Wedgworth's began in 32.

These organizations are today among the largest celery producers in Florida.

There are between 3,500 to 4,000 acres of celery grown by 30 farmers in the Glades which will produce better than 4,000 cars for value of better than $6,000,000—a major industry of itself.

Glades celery is of equal and superior quality to that grown in other parts of Florida and the United States.
